

From: Klaus Wivel klw@weekendavisen.dk
Subject: Joakim Garff
Date: August 10, 2005 at 10:35 AM
To: mp34@drexel.edu

Dear Ms. Piety

Thank you for your comments in Politiken yesterday. They have caused quite a roar in Denmark. I have been one of the academics defending Joakim Garff's book, but your insights have given us cause for thought.

I am the literary editor of a weekly paper, Weekendavisen, and there is one question troubling me: Is it true that Garff hasn't made any corrections in the English edition despite the fact that he publicly wrote that he had done so?

I do not wish to quote you. It is for background information. We are going to write a small piece about it in the paper, and we just need to be completely sure about that issue.

Best wishes

Klaus Wivel
Literary editor